BEST GUILTY OF TREASON

Former American News Man Faces Possible Death for Nazi Broadcasts.

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, April 17—Robert H. Best, a native of Sumpter S. C., today faced a possible death sentence for treason in broadcasting Nazi propaganda from Germany during the war.

A federal court jury convicted the former European news correspondent yesterday—his fifty-second birthday—of all 12 overt acts contained in the government's indictment.

Judge Francis J. W. Ford continued the case indefinitely to reflect on disposition. The maximum penalty is death. It may be as little as five years imprisonment and a $10,000 fine.

Best, the well educated son of a Methodist minister; admitted he made 300 broadcasts from Germany during the war — many beamed to the United States. He insisted, however, that he never intended to betray his country.

He said his desire to fight Communism and Bolshevism prompted him to enter the service of Radio Berlin.

Several recordings of his broadcasts attacking President Roosevelt, the American war effort, Russia and Jews were played in the courtroom during the 14-day trial.

Best admitted participating in broadcast roundtable discussions with Douglas Chandler, another American, who was sentenced to life last June in the same courtroom, and William Joyce—"Lord Haw Haw" of the German radio. Joyce was executed in England.

Mansfield Man Held In $11,000 Fla. Theft

By The Associated Press

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., April 17—A 53-year-old Mansfield, O., laborer today faced a grand larceny charge in the theft of $11,000 from a New York woman.

Detective Supt. Charles W. Pierce said yesterday that Stephen S. Enoff admitted walking off with money given him by a trusting winter visitor.

Pierce said Enoff made his admission after he was asked: "Didn't your mother teach you to tell the truth?"

Mrs. Julia Grech of New York said she gave the money to Enoff while she went for a dip in the ocean March 28. The money was her husband's life savings, and it was in a money belt, she said.

Pierce quoted Enoff as originally saying he won the money at the dog races.

Children's Check Of Taped Fingers Leads To Arrest

By The Associated Press

PORTLAND, Ore., April 17—A couple of children listened to a radio crime program and today had a Missouri kidnap suspect in jail.

The FBI said the suspect is John Harvey Bugg, 31, object of a two and one-half year nationwide hunt.

Pauline Virgin, 12, and Navarre Smith, 14, heard a radio program tell of a limping horse-lover wanted for kidnaping a Missouri sheriff in 1945. His left fingers were tattooed with the word "L-O-V-E."

"Why, that's Cowboy Jim," said Pauline, referring to a riding academy employe known as Jim Williams, who always kept his left fingers taped.

Pauline asked him about the tape.

"He was very nasty. I was scared of him after that," she said.

Navarre took over. He walked up to a policeman and asked, "Where does the FBI live?"

The policemen listened to the story, called the FBI. But Williams left the riding academy.

At Hillsboro, Ore., said FBI Agent Howard I. Bobbitt, they found Bugg, hiding under a baby's crib in a friend's house yesterday.

Bobbitt said Bugg is accused of disarming Dade County, Mo., Sheriff Hugh P. Wilkerson as the sheriff was taking him to jail on a forgery charge Nov. 29, 1945.

U.S. AGENCY AIDS ITALY ON ELECTION EVE

Commodities' Shipment Announced in Wind-up of Drive for Votes.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 17—On the eve of the Italian elections, the economic cooperation administration said today $20,424,000 more in food, coal and other commodities will be shipped to that country, France and the Netherlands.

Paul G. Hoffman, ECA chief, said these shipments will be in addition to $37,877,000 in aid authorized for the three countries earlier this week. The money for purchases comes from the new European recovery program.

Hoffman listed these allotments to the three countries under the shipping schedule:

To France: Coal, $5,658,000; wheat flour, $5,650,000.

To Italy: Coal, $6,000,000; wheat flour, $1,130,000; soya flour, $410,000; rolled oats, $562,000.

To the Netherlands: wheat, $1,014,000.

The total for France is $11,308,000 and to Italy $8,102,000.

The Western Powers, meanwhile, have made a third demand on Russia for a yes-or-no answer on the question of returning Trieste to Italy.

Just six hours before the formal wind-up of the Italian campaign, in which the communists are bidding for control; the United States, Britain and France in effect called on Moscow yesterday to quit stalling over their proposal to turn Trieste back to Italy.

The western demand served as a final reminder to millions of Italians voting Sunday that Russia blocks the way to the border city's return.

The closing diplomatic stroke climaxed a long series of measures aimed at winning friends for western democracy in the strategic nation.

The greatest step in that direction was passage this month of the vast European recovery program, under which American supplies already are flowing to Italy. U. S. shipments of food, coal and other aid to the Mediterranean country since V-J day now total an estimated $1,900,000,000.

In another last-minute move, Attorney General Clark reminded Italians in a shortwave broadcast last night that this country had found it necessary to bar its doors to Communists.

And he appealed to the Italian people to return "a resounding victory for God and freedom" in Sunday's election.

Italian Election Lists 98 Parties, Only Six Important

By The United Press

ROME, April 17—Italians will vote Sunday and Monday in national elections in which the issue of communism vs. anti-communism is clearly drawn.

About 29,000,000 Italians are registered as qualified voters. About 27,000,000 probably will cast ballots. About 1,000,000 ballots probably will be invalidated. This will leave a total of about 26,000,000 valid votes.

These votes will be cast to elect 237 senators and 574 deputies. There are 1,128 candidates for senate seats, 5,626 for seats in the chamber of deputies.

Ninety-eight parties are represented by candidates for election, but no more than 21 are entered in any one district. Naples and Rome each have 21 parties on the ballot.

Of these, six parties are important nationally. Probably not more than 12 parties will elect candidates.

A large percentage of the parties are small special interest groups campaigning in only one district.

The Communist Lineup

The Communist front represents all Communist groups. It is an alliance of the Communists headed by Palmiro Togliatti, and the left-wing Socialists headed by Pietro Nenni. Other small groups have joined it. Communists got 18.9 per cent of the vote in 1946, but the front since has absorbed about 65 per cent of the then United Socialist party. The Socialists got 20.7 per cent of the 1946 vote. Best estimates have been that the Communist front will get around 30 per cent of the total vote in the April 18 elections.

All other parties may be regarded in this election as anti-Communist.

The five most important are:

Christian Democrats—Led by Premier Alcide De Gasperi. Strongly Catholic. Topped the 1946 election with 35.2 per cent of the vote.

National Bloc—Formed for remains of three parties, one of which, the Liberal National Democratic Union headed by former Premier Francesco Nitti, ran fourth in 1946 with 6.8 per cent of the vote.

Third Socialist Union—Formed for this election by right-wing Socialists led by Vice Premier Giuseppe Saragat and Independent Socialists led by Ivan Mattero Lombardo.

Republicans—Headed by Vice Premier Randolph Pacciardi and Defense Minister Cipriano Facchinetti, ran sixth in 1946 with 4.3 per cent of the vote.

Italian Social Movement (MSI)—New party, openly fascist in policy, nominally headed by Giorgio Almirante, 32, who is called by his opponents "the gorgeous

RISING WATERS STILL MENACE

Flood of the Ohio Takes Lives of Four; Newport Fights Residential Danger.

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, O., April 17—The flood crest of the Ohio river swung down on Cincinnati today while across the river at Newport, Ky., workers fought an around-the-clock battle against the rising water.

Newport city police said townspeople and 640 soldiers would win their fight to keep the Licking river from an area housing 10,000 persons. But, it was an enormous task.

Early today, they said, weary workers had piled sandbags eight to 10 feet high for 2,000 feet, and would pile them a foot higher as added precaution. The Licking joins the Ohio near Cincinnati.

Two high school girls — Mary Jane Burchett, 16, and Wanda Mowery, 17—drowned at Friendship, O., nine miles downstream from Portsmouth, O., last night. They were sightseeing with four others in a boat that overturned. The other four were rescued.

Relief Groups Help

The toll of human life now stands at four. Two earlier deaths were attributed indirectly to the flood.

At Newport, Catlettsburg, Ashland and Covington—at a dozen towns along the Kentucky shore—relief agencies cared for the homeless by the hundreds.

The Red Cross at Cincinnati said last night that some 31,000 persons had been affected by the flood in four states. The agency gave these figures:

Kentucky: 21 counties hit, 3,123 families evacuated, 20 emergency shelters in operation and more than 16,000 persons affected.

Ohio: 14 counties hit, 2,106 families evacuated and 21 shelters in operation.

West Virginia: eight counties hit, 745 families evacuated, nine shelters in operation.

Indiana: eight counties hit, 251 families evacuated, and more expected as the crest approaches. Four shelters now in operation, others available.

Predicts 64.3-Foot Crest

The report did not include families that moved themselves and families that have moved into second floor rooms in flooded areas. No estimate of those families was available.

The flood's focus today, however, was here in southwestern Ohio and in northern Kentucky.

U. S. river forecaster George R. Marth predicted the river would crest here at noon, touching 64.3 feet.

The river was scheduled to begin a slow fall today, reaching flood level by next Tuesday morning.

PROCAIMS MOTHER'S DAY

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, April 17 — Gov. Thomas J. Herbert has proclaimed May 9 as Mother's day.

Nursing Service for Marion and Vicinity Provided by Official Registry.

Today marks the seventeenth anniversary of the Seventh District, Ohio State Nurses association, an organization whose services to the city and community can not be measured in terms of dollars and cents. Numbering in its membership women of the nursing profession in Marion, Delaware, Union, Morrow, Crawford and Wyandot counties, the organization throughout the years has contributed immeasurably to the welfare of the community it serves, and also has found time to participate in civic affairs.

The Seventh District was organized on April 17, 1931, when a representative group met at Hotel Harding. Mrs. Mary B. Pleasant Hanawalt of Ashland, Ky., who was then superintendent of the Marion City hospital, was chosen as the first president.

The chief project of the association was establishment, on July 16, 1934, of the Nurses' Official Registry at 199 Olney avenue, set up as a service to residents of Marion and the surrounding counties. Miss Marie Fulton, R.N., who is the official registrar, is a resident of Marion, and a graduate of the Methodist Episcopal hospital in Indianapolis, Ind. She is registered in Ohio and California. Marion was chosen as the site for the registry because of the central location in the district.

Difficulties Solved

Prior to the establishing of the registry, physicians and hospitals in the district were considerably handicapped in treating the sick by a lack of ready and sufficient nursing service. The aim of the registry is to bring about a more even distribution of nurses in the territory, as well as to aid in maintaining a high standard of education and character in the profession. Service is provided for any period of time desired, even hourly when special treatment of the patient is desired.

All nurses to be listed at the Nurses' Official Registry must be members of the American Nurses' association, the Ohio State Nurses association and the district. Only graduates of recognized schools of nursing, and those who have successfully passed the Ohio state examination which entitles them to be registered, are permitted membership.

The registry is open day and night. The average number of registered nurses listed with the Nurses' Official Registry for Marion is 15. Five physicians and one veterinarian have been included in the telephone service maintained.

The total number of calls at the close of the last official year for doctors was 5,475. There were 824 calls for nurses for private duty filled during this period for hospital or home cases, and 21 calls for hourly nursing in homes.

Many of the 824 calls were for group nursing when nurses could not be obtained for just one patient. There were many calls in addition which could not be filled due to the scarcity of nurses. It would be impossible to give the number of incoming, outgoing, and contact calls during the past year.

The registry receives many calls for information concerning the community work of various health programs, and from committees asking for assistance in nursing projects locally. Positions are filled in industrial, public health, physicians' assistants and institutional through the registry as well.

During the emergency many of the private duty nurses worked double shifts as well as caring for two or more patients on one shift, or even two shifts. The registry is open to the public for inspection daily.

SILVER STREET CONSTRUCTION TO COME FIRST

State St. Junior High Second on List, Followed by Main High School.

Marion's city school building program, on tap since 1946 when a $2,100,000 bond issue was voted, will get under way this summer with construction of an addition to the Silver street grade school, to be followed next year by a new junior high school on North State street.

The board of education, after weighing the critical need for improved and enlarged school facilities against the rising spiral of construction costs, has decided to go ahead with the two projects by expending approximately half of the funds available from the bond issue.

Original proposals covered a three-phase program which included construction of a new main high school building on the site near the Harding athletic field in addition to the new State street junior high school and enlargement of the Silver street grade school. Under original cost estimates, $1,350,000 was to be expended for construction of the new high school, $449,000 for the new junior high school and $135,000 for revamping and enlarging the Silver street school.

Original Program Revised

Steadily rising costs since the bond issue was approved at the May primary in 1946 have necessitated a revision of construction estimates which now preclude the possibility of building a new high school with funds remaining after the Silver street and North State street projects are completed.

Present estimates call for $150,000 to be spent in enlarging, redecorating and otherwise improving the Silver street school. The new State street junior high school cost has been boosted to $900,000. Both projects together take up $1,110,000 of the original bond issue, leaving $990,000 in hand toward construction of the new high school on the Harding athletic field site.

Superintendent of Schools Lester L. Dickey indicated that final plans for the addition to the Silver street school are now on the drawing board of architect Charles Oborn. The board of education will advertise for bids as soon as the plans are complete, which should be in about a month. Construction of the addition will get under way this year.

Plans for Silver St.

The new addition will be located to the east and will be connected by passageway to the present building. Main features will be an all-purpose recreation or community room and addition of two new classrooms. The present school building, already relighted, will be completely redecorated. Plans also call for a new heating system to be included in the $150,000 improvement program.

The Silver street project was given first priority by the board of education as the logical step toward filling the more critical of existing needs for improving school facilities.

The board of education also has given the go-ahead to architects Thomas D. McLaughlin and John J. Keil of Lima to prepare detailed construction plans for the new State street school. Superintendent Dickey indicated the board of education anticipates being ready to advertise bids by late fall and contemplates start of construction next spring.

If that timetable is maintained, the new building will be ready for occupancy at the start of the school year in the fall of 1950. Central junior high school will be closed at that time and its disposal left in the hands of the board of education.

State Street Plans

The new State Street Junior High will be located on the site of the former elementary school at 494 North State between Frederick and Short streets. It is to be a two-story structure; actually three stories if a raised basement is considered, of cinder block faced with brick construction.

It will comprise two wings, each approximately 74 feet wide by 157 feet deep, connected by a center section approximating 228 feet in length and 60 feet in depth. Overall length of the building, to be shaped like the capital letter I, will be 378 feet. It will take up virtually the entire frontage of the present site which is slightly more than 336 feet in width.

The long, low building will be of modernistic design with glass brick supplementing view win-

Joining the veterans for the meeting were members of Betsy Ross Auxiliary No. 14, department officers, representatives of local patriotic organizations and other guests. 22 DIE, 28 HURT, IN ENGLISH TRAIN CRASH

By The Associated Press

CREW, ENGLAND, April 17—A Glasgow-London mail train plowed into a stalled express near here today, killing 22 persons and injuring 28 others in the splintered wreckage of seven passenger coaches.

Survivors said a passenger had stopped the express 20 minutes before by pulling an emergency cord. They did not say why.

The wreck—worst since Britain's railways passed into government hands Jan. 1—occurred at 12:40 a. m. British summer time (6:40 p. m., EST Friday) near Winsford, Cheshire.

A British railways press officer said the mail train hit the rear of the London-bound express. Winsford is about 150 miles northwest of London.

Seven coaches of the passenger train were wrecked and four coaches of the mail train derailed.

The survivors said the mail train tore through the coaches at high speed.

Rescuers, working by improvised lights, dug into the wreckage for injured, who could be heard screaming. Water was sprayed to protect rescuers from possible fires as they hacked through the torn coaches with acetylene torches.

Doctors administered morphine to sufferers who could be reached through the debris. A temporary morgue was set up near the crash scene. The wounded were distributed among hospitals and infirmaries in Winsford and neighboring communities.

City Employes See Blue Cross Pictures

All off duty city employes were guests of Harry M. Slultz of Columbus, field representative of the Central Hospital Service Blue Cross Plan, central district of Ohio, at the showing of two motion pictures about Blue Cross, in Eagles lodge room at 4:15 p. m. Friday.

The pictures were shown as a preliminary to the annual enrollment campaign of the Blue Cross which is scheduled for next month in Marion.

Safety-Service Director E. O. Uncapher said today that approximately 10 per cent of the local hospital income is paid by Blue Cross on hospitalization policies of their subscribers.

Marion's 10 per cent subscription to Blue Cross is considerably lower than in most cities of comparative size in Ohio as Blue Cross at present covers 30 per cent of hospital patients in Ohio, Mr. Uncapher said.

PERU, Ill., April 17—Twenties-for-Taft headquarters in Peru reported today that the first 20 members have sent in 500 names of young women who wish to work for the presidential candidacy of Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio.

In addition, she said headquarters has been deluged with offers of assistance from persons outside the age bracket of 20 to 30—ranging from girls in their teens to men in their sixties. Mrs. Miller declared:

"It indicates that Sen. Taft has enormously wide appeal. It also shows that people think Twenties-for-Taft a splendid idea."

STOP FIGHTING, UN TELLS ARABS, JEWS

By The Associated Press

LAKE SUCCESS, April 17—The United Nations security council today told the Jews and Arabs to stop fighting in Palestine, but there is no indication either faction will abide by the order.

The council laid down six specific truce directives to the two factions but at the last minute killed a provision to send a UN commission to the Holy Land to check on compliance.

The final vote came at 2:18 a.m. after five and a half hours of debate and paragraph-by-paragraph balloting. The emergency night session started only a few hours after adjournment of the first meeting of a special General Assembly session on the Palestine problem.

Russia refused to support the truce proposal but Andrei A. Gromyko withheld his big-power veto and abstained. The Soviet Ukraine joined Russia as usual. This made the final ballot 9 to 0.

Four provisions were passed unanimously. On two, Russia and the Ukraine abstained.

There was no assurance that either the Jewish agency for Palestine or the Arab higher committee, representatives of Palestine Jews and Arabs, would lay down their arms.

State Senator Speaks

"America is safe as long as veterans' organizations are true to the principles of their obligation," D. A. Liggitt of Belle Center, state senator from the 13th-31st district, a guest of the camp, said in his talk. It is time, he continued, that we are getting back to the fundamentals that has made this country a beacon to the world.

The theme of muster day is service, George L. Rakestraw of Columbus, department adjutant stated in an informal talk. All of us, he said, who gave service in time of war should be willing to give service to our comrades and their families.

Reminiscences of the war of half a century ago were recalled throughout the talks and Elmer R. Bondley, adjutant of the Marion camp, recalled that the organization has members from Canada to Florida and on the east and west coasts. The war with Spain, he said, is the only one in history fought by a 100 per cent volunteer army.

Brief talks were given by Colonel Hubert L. Taylor of the Marion Chapter, Officers Reserve Corps, Mayor Harry S. Dowler, John H. Moore, commander of Bird-McGinnis Post No. 162, American Legion, and Sylvester Larkin of Urbana, a member of the camp.

BATTLE BEFORE ITALIAN VOTE — Italian police, swinging clubs, wade in and break up a battle between Communists and their opposition during a campaign rally in Milan. More than 300,000 police and soldiers have been placed on duty to maintain order during the election. (International Soundphoto).

PARTIES

fascist." It thrives on nostalgia for Mussolini and his policies.

Most election results will detail only returns for these six parties. The remainder will be lumped as "others."

Schedule for Voting

The polls in Italy open at 6 a. m. Sunday. They will close at 10 p. m. Sunday evening but will be open again Monday from 7 a. m. until 2 p. m. (7 a. m. EST). No conclusive returns may be expected Sunday or Sunday night. There will be a few unofficial partial estimates of results available from Italian newspapers and from party workers at the polls. There probably will be the usual claims and counter-claims.

After the polls close Monday, the Italian ministry of interior will announce what percentage of eligible voters cast ballots.

The only official election returns will come from the interior ministry. The counting is a long and involved process, since a proportional representation system is used.

It may be said that complete final results will not be known for 10 days after the election.

Should Know by Wednesday

But it should be determined conclusively, perhaps late Wednesday, whether the Communists have suffered a real defeat in the voting. At that time, fairly definite percentages of the vote for the major parties and of seats won in both houses should be available.

In general, it may be said that if the Communists get less than 35 per cent of seats in both houses, the indications are that they will be excluded from the new government. If they get 45 per cent or more in either house, they almost certainly would be included in a coalition government.

But no final word can be said—barring a Communist sweep of 50 per cent or more of the vote—as to whether they will be in the government until the new cabinet is formed, about May 20 or even later, after delicate political negotiations.

Nevertheless, a vote of less than 35 per cent Communist can be regarded as a major victory for anti-Communist forces.

Galion Plant Workers Get 20-Cent Increase

Special to The Star

GALION, April 17—Agreement has been made between plant officials and union local and district representatives whereby certain employes of the Hercules Steel Products corporation are to get a 20-cents an hour wage boost.

The contract was signed Thursday night between Local 1151, International Association of Machinists, and the Hercules company. C. R. Kammerer, vice president of the company, was one of the signers.

Aside from the approximate 20 cents an hour, there is also a fringe boost of about seven cents an hour. The making-out of the contract is the culmination of several months of endeavor.

ITALY

400,000 guarded the election-eve peace the country over today.

Mario Scelba, whose interior ministry controls police, said in his last campaign speech here last night:

"The government will be on the watch. If the liberty of the vote should be compromised, it would not hesitate to take the most radical measures, even the suspension of the elections."

He repeated his oft-made charge that Genoa's Communist mayor had issued 30,000 false voting certificates, three to Soviet employes of the Genoa Russian consulate.

But he said the government's recent show of strength had "removed fear" from the minds of Italians. He said measures have been taken "to assure that the election cooling-off period began under a cabinet decree forbidding further political meetings.

The authoritative Rome Newspaper Messagero quoted Christian democratic premier Alcide de Gasperi as saying in a Naples interview last night he thought his party would do better this time than in the constitutent assembly election of June 6, 1946.

In that election, it polled 35.2 per cent of the vote and elected 207 of 555 deputies.

Both de Gasperi and Communist leader Palmiro Togliatti spoke in the windup of campaigning.

SCHOOLS

dows. Features will include a completely equipped cafeteria, industrial arts shop, drafting room, library, home economics facilities, music room for both vocal and instrumental students and an art room, the first specifically designed for that purpose in the city school system.

Classrooms will occupy most of the space in the center section with the cafeteria located in the basement, the floor of which is to be but several feet below the ground level.

The north wing will largely be taken up by a gymnasium with a seating capacity of approximately 800. The south wing will be given over largely to the auditorium and music rooms.

Auditorium Problematical

Inclusion of the auditorium under the $960,000 cost estimate is problematical at the present time but will be included in the plans, however. If construction is not possible at the present time, space for the auditorium will be left available for construction at a later date rather than alter present design of the building, it was indicated.

With the completion of these two steps in the overall school building program, the board of education feels it will be meeting the most critical need. It was the opinion of the board of education and concurred in by the architects and Civic Planning association, that if the building program were spread over a slightly longer period, present high labor and material costs could be more easily absorbed and the city get the most for its money out of the funds available.

Mentioned as a factor in the board's decision was the prospect of a tight labor market this year in view of the large construction program contemplated by the Monsanto Chemical company which has indicated a need for approximately 1,000 workers for their building program slated to get underway soon.

NEW INTERNATIONAL CABINET IS FORMED

By The Associated Press

PARIS, April 17 — The five-power western European bloc formed an international cabinet today to enforce the military, political and economic provisions of their union.

Foreign ministers of France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg designated their ambassadors in London to meet at least once a month with a British representative. They also set up a permanent military committee to meet at London.

Defense ministers of the five nations will meet whenever it is necessary to carry out military provisions of the treaty signed at Brusseis last month.

The five foreign ministers will form a permanent consultative council to meet at least once every three months.

The foreign ministers, in a day-long conference in the French foreign ministry, heard reports sent by Paul-Henry Spaak, premier and foreign minister of Belgium, on his recent talks in Washington.

The council of European ministers on the Marshall plan, the world's newest political and economic legislature, called its first working session here today.

He opened his talk by commenting on fundamental beliefs. Named were recognition of God as creator and ruler of the universe whose laws "we do not break, but which break us if we disobey"; the Bible as the word through which God speaks; God as the trinity; the reality of hell; the church as the body of Christ. "Churches to be successful must be soul winners," he declared, continuing, "We were put into this world to enjoy God and to do His will." In the light of the beliefs which he named, he pointed out "our definite responsibilities as Christians" which he said include "putting first things first, study of the Bible, prayer life, witnessing for Christ, church attendance, Sunday observance, stewardship, and assisting the pastor."

At the meeting next week, the speaker will be Alexander Martin, Negro attorney of Cleveland, and prominent churchman and YMCA worker, E. N. Hale, Marion Y secretary, announced. The subject will be "Is Democracy Safe?"

Taft Advocates Repeal Of Oleo "Penalty" Taxes

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, April 17 — Sen Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) came out today for repeal of what he called "the penalty taxes on oleomargarine."

In a news conference he said a vote on that tax will come up in congress late next month.

His statement put him in direct opposition to the stand taken by his rival in the May 4 Ohio primaries, Harold E. Stassen.

Taft took up the margarine tax question again in a speech this noon before the National Restaurant association. He said:

"Those taxes are designed for the purpose of discouraging the sale of margarine and its use. They are not revenue producers. Their principal purpose was to prevent fraud in the sale of margarine as butter. But surely we can devise other methods to prevent fraud."

BURNING OF WEEDS WASTEFUL PRACTICE

Conservation Official Tells of Damage to Land.

Burning of weeds and dead grass as a means of destroying pests results in grave losses throughout Marion county each year, L. Williams of the U. S. Conservation Service said today in discussing the care and conservation of farm lands. The grass fire in Pleasant township which burned over several acres endangering residences and buildings, was voted as typical of the careless and wasteful practice.

"Much is made of valuable cover destroyed on our land cover for our wildlife as well, Mr. Williams said. Little is accomplished by actually destroying weed seed. The weed seeds actually drops to the ground it will germinate later," he states.

"Millions of dollars of valuable crops, residences, barns and other property is destroyed each year because of a desire to destroy dead vegetation. Mowing, dragging or rolling of these areas will place these dead plants back on the ground to build up topsoil.

"Grass and brush fence rows are valuable for both game and song birds. Protection of both from burning and cutting will give nesting places for song and game birds and escape cover for our small beneficial animals."

For the first time in a number of years Ohio has a closed season on hunting of groundhogs, O. H. Neimeyer of Prospect, game protector said today.

With the spring fishing season getting under way Mr. Neimeyer also issued a reminder that all fishermen must wear their fishing licenses while on stream or lake.

Roving Reports

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—"YOU'RE my son's very age."

"He was just your color."

"You look so much like my brother."

These are the remarks that next-of-kin make most often to the military escorts who accompany American war dead being brought home from overseas.

No silent taxi goes home lonelier.

Each dead soldier, sailor and Marine is escorted from a distribution center—there are fifteen in the United States — to his final destination by a fellow serviceman of his own rank.

Hal Boyle

Approximately 65 to 75 per cent of the war dead to be returned to American will pass through the New York port of embarkation, and more than 16,000 have been brought back here since last Oct. 15.

There is a slogan in the Army: "Never volunteer." But more than 400 servicemen have volunteered for assignment as military escorts for war dead passing through distribution center, No. 1, a quartermaster installation at the embarkation port here. It has the duty of returning war dead in the Metropolitan area.

Most escorts are combat veterans themselves—like First Sgt. Bernard Tobin, 28, of Cortland, N. Y., an aerial gunner in the Battle of the Bulge. Or Tech. Sgt. Robert Joralemon, 28, a B-17 radio operator from Elmira, N. Y., who made 35 missions over Europe. Or Marine Staff Sgt. Arthur H. Gruenberg, 25, of Denver, Colo., who was captured on Corregidor and spent 3½ years in Jap prison camps.

ALL ARE GIVEN a training course before they begin the task of escorting the dead heroes to their families.

"It's a sad duty," said Sgt. Tobin, "and your first mission about breaks you to pieces.

"But the family usually wants to take us right into their home until the services are over. They try to make us feel like we are their own sons, and the mothers often say 'You look just like my own boy.'

"A lot of them ask us to come back and spend our next leave with them," said Joralemon.

Escorts who saw combat themselves are particularly sensitive to the dignity of their missions. They feel that except for the way their luck went on the battlefield they might themselves be among the silent passengers now making the long journey home.

"I HAVE BEEN very fortunate," said Sgt. Gruenberg, a slim quiet man who was only 20 when the Japs took him. "I feel it is a real honor to take home men who died for this country we cherish."

He said it very simply.

Only one escort has asked to be relieved. He is a sergeant in his late forties who was assigned to Army camps in this country during the war.

"It wasn't my fault I didn't go overseas," he said. "But I couldn't stand the look in the eyes of parents of the dead boys when they asked me if I'd served with their sons."

One embarrassing feature of the assignment is that relatives try to force money gifts on the escorts to show their gratitude.

"When we refuse, they try to slip it in our pockets," said Tobin.

One father tried to give an escort $100. An elderly Polish woman took $1.75 from her purse—all she had in it—and pleaded with the escort who had brought her boy home to take the money.

ANOTHER FAMILY wrote to the commanding officer of one young escort and asked permission to adopt him.

The escorts say they have met with no bitterness among servicemen. I asked Tobin if any of the next-of-kin had expressed regret at having decided to bring their war dead back.

"Sometimes," he said, "a relative at the services will say, perhaps it would have been better to have left him over there—"

"But I never heard a father or a mother say that. For all their grief they're glad to have him home again to do for him what they can. They feel he's home."

WARD STILSON DRESS PLANT CLOSES DOWN

Lease and Economic Conditions Given as Reasons.

The Marion plant of the Ward Stilson company, manufacturers of women's dresses, located at 280 North Main street, shut down Friday.

Plant Manager R. O. Wantland said today that economic conditions prompted the halt in production here. That the fact that the present lease on their building is to expire soon makes it impossible for the company to predict with any accuracy when the firm will be in a position to resume production, he stated.

The plant normally employs approximately 150, but the number affected by the shut down yesterday was 74, the current payroll figure, Wantland said.

Notice of the shut down was given employes Friday. Suggestion was made that they look elsewhere for employment and if at a later date production is resumed they would be notified and offered employment again.

Pay checks and separation papers for employes were to be mailed from the home office of the company in Anderson, Ind.

The office here will remain open next week, Wantland said.

The Marion plant of the Ward Stilson company opened here in October, 1944, at 142 South Prospect street, moving to the present location in April, 1946, under lease which expires in October of this year. Mr. Wantland has been plant manager since February, 1947, succeeding Robert H. Gentry.

Municipal Court Fees Distributed for March

Mrs. Chas. Fleck, statistical clerk of the Marion municipal court clerk's office, today issued a report of the distribution of court funds for March.

Chief costs collected by the court, amounting to $1,016.5, were paid over to the city treasurer for the general fund.

Under the court's criminal division $3,280.10 in criminal costs, fines and costs were assessed and collected.

Of this amount $2,105.70 was paid to the city treasurer, $2038.70 going to the general fund and $181 to street repair and maintenance.

The county treasurer received $917.20 as the county's share of fines and costs while $767.20 paid to the law library during the July-August-Sept. of the court to that agency for 1948. All of this year's $8,000 payment by municipal court is now in.

Sheriff LeRoy Rettger received $36 turnkey fee for handling city prisoners, and the state treasurer's office received $30 as the state's half of all fines collected in cases where the arresting officer was a highway patrolman.

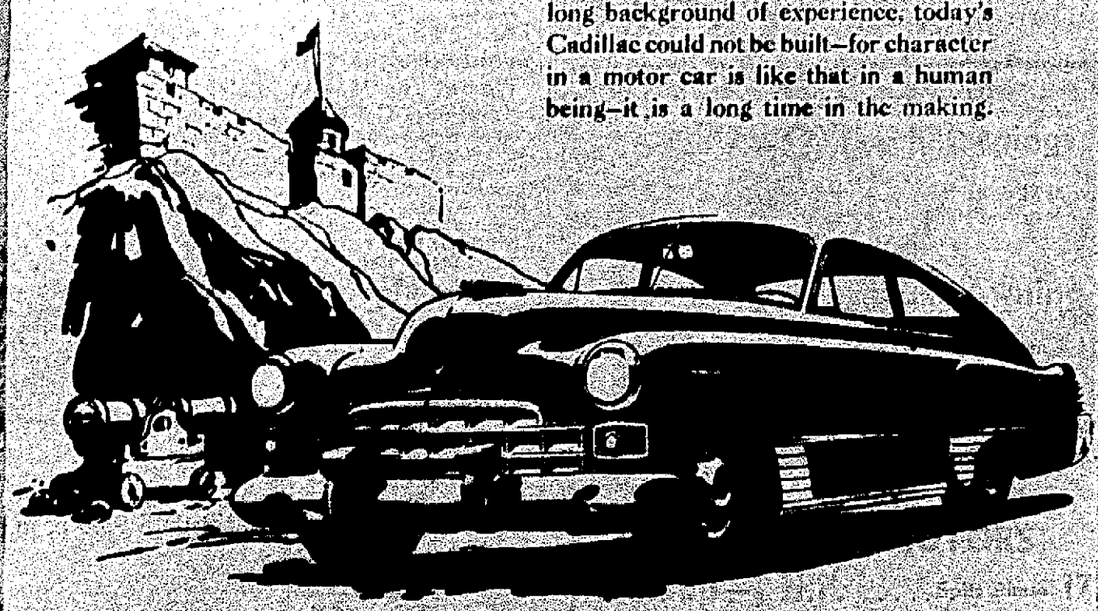
Cadillac
ANCESTRY
The new Cadillacs you see today on the streets and highways of America have been more than forty-five years in the making. Back of them is a long line of fine, pioneering ancestors—every one of which has made a basic contribution to Cadillac's development. Without this long background of experience, today's Cadillac could not be built—for character in a motor car is like that in a human being—it is a long time in the making.



As we go to press for a new Cadillac—ready to proceed that every effort to bring [illegible] Ground is to stop, however, that even delay in delivery [illegible] to you personally. There is no substitute for a Cadillac.

FEWER DRAW BUC BENEFITS

Marion Reverses Statewide Trend Which Shows Increase.

The weekly average of persons receiving unemployment benefits in Marion dropped 20 per cent during the month of March, Fred B. Scherff manager of the local unemployment compensation bureau said commenting upon a statewide average increase of seven per cent in that period as reported today by Frank J. Collopy state BUC chief.

A United Press report from Columbus said Collopy announced an average of 48,880 persons received unemployment benefit payments each week during March for a seven per cent hike over the February average.

Mr. Scherff reported also that initial claims filed in Marion during that period dropped more than 38 per cent as against the state wide average drop of only 20 per cent as reported by State Administrator Collopy.

State figures on initial claims totalled 35,109 last month, one-fifth less than in February. Collopy attributed the decline chiefly to improved weather conditions which ended gas shortage lay-offs and increased construction employment.

Coal shortage in the Toledo and Bucyrus areas was reflected in a jump in initial claims for readjustment allowances filed by veterans among railroad workers laid off, Collopy pointed out. Coal miners, however, filed fewer than 100 claims throughout the month, he added.

Initial claims in Marion dropped from 366 in February to 332 in March, Mr. Scherff pointed out in contrast to state wide figures. Initial claims in February were quite high as a result of lay-offs caused by lack of materials and high prices resulting in lack of orders, he said.

The 20 per cent drop in weekly average of persons receiving benefits was indicated as due to recall of workers here, not particularly to one industry but a worker here and there.

Concerning the coal shortage, Mr. Scherff reported but six persons filed claims here directly as a result of the shortage and were mainly coal truck drivers and a few railroad workers.

Interesting If True

HAROLD J. LASKI, the English political theorist, made a remark about Russia the other day that's hard to put out of mind. Commenting on his postwar visits to that country, he told newspapermen interviewing him in Chicago that Russians take American comment literally. They believe this country is getting ready to go to war with their country. They are frightened and are doing, therefore, what badly frightened people sometimes do—pretending to be full of bluff and bluster. Professor Laski thinks it adds up to a problem of convincing the Kremlin that the United States is not getting ready to attack Russia, in order to get rid of the bluff and bluster keeping the United States convinced that Russia is getting ready to attack it instead. He suggests this might be done by a meeting between Premier Stalin and President Truman, or perhaps Mr. Truman's successor.

The professor probably oversimplifies it, but if American talk about war is having half as much effect on Russian psychology as Russian belligerence has been having on American psychology it's time for somebody to have a meeting before a trigger is pulled from hysteria.

Unified Defense

DISAGREEMENT about national defense needs has broken out at the high command level and spread to the house of representatives. Its unanimous decision on Thursday to authorize Air Force expansion above the limit presumably agreed on by Secretary of Defense Forrestal is a serious challenge to unification of the armed services. It seemed to confirm the dissent of Air Secretary Symington to Forrestal's viewpoint on a "balanced" defense program.

It is becoming apparent that there is more to unification of the armed services than passage of a law. As President Truman has said, the services themselves must learn to think in terms of unification. Beyond that, congressmen and their constituents must learn to think that way. Undeniably, the source of much of the rivalry for position originates with civilian partisans of the various branches of defense.

While no one wants unification to stifle initiative and certainly not to gag discussion, the only way there can be any real unification is for everybody concerned to think of the problem of defense as a whole, not a problem of building up one branch of the armed services out of proportion to the other branches.

The Hangman Is Unemployed

BRITAIN has joined 12 other countries and six American states in abolishing the death penalty. The house of commons, by a 245-222 vote, has decided to end capital punishment for a five-year trial period, completing a pattern which has seen the gradual mitigation of the law through the centuries.

In 13th century England all felonies except mayhem and petty larceny were punishable by death. At first the law was mitigated for those who could read and write. Since 1838 the death penalty has been imposed only for murder and treason.

It is interesting to note that the measure had neither the support of the Labor government nor Conservative leaders. The issue was put to a free vote, its members not bound by party lines. Thus England, which once saw almost daily processions of all types of felons from Old Bailey to Execution Dock, decides that the state shall not have the power to take life.

International Political Campaign

WHEN John Foster Dulles proposed recently that the western powers form an organization like the Cominform to fight propaganda with propaganda in the battle for men's minds it sounded like a radical departure. The fact is it would be one of the most natural things in the world for Americans to do.

In this country political campaigns are run from party headquarters. Money is collected for the expenses incidental to persuading people that candidate X is preferable to candidate Z. Party workers are assigned specific duties. There are clubs, advertising campaigns, speakers and all manner of assorted hoopla.

An international political campaign is essentially the same thing, though it's only beginning to dawn on men like Mr. Dulles, formerly preoccupied with diplomacy, that the Cominform is nothing more or less than headquarters for an international political campaign to put over the idea of communism. For years the Communists have had the field to themselves; they agitated while the opposition burned. The most logical thing in the world for the United States to think of is a campaign of counter agitation. A couple of seasoned politicians and a good advertising agency could make the Cominform look sick in no more time than it takes to think up a new slogan.

Did You Know

The U. S. Army supplied the first government weather information service in the United States under an act passed by congress in 1870.

Although all age-groups of women in the United States had a lower death rate in 1947 than in 1946, only the men under 45 years old had a lower rate.

Scanning the Record

By George E. Sokolsky

The Right of Rejection.

A FALLACY that somehow has gained currency in this country is that academic freedom in some manner makes a professor in a university sacrosanct. It does no such thing. All that academic freedom means is that a scholar shall not be prohibited from speaking or writing what he chooses to believe is the truth. For his choice he must assume responsibility even as you and I.

Freedom involves not only the right of expression but also the right of rejection. Each individual enjoys the privilege of rejecting what he believes to be untrue, harmful and malicious. He is lawfully entitled to express that rejection and to state the reasons for his choice, either verbally or in writing or by such an act as withholding from purchasing a commodity or making a contribution.

SOKOLSKY

For instance, I never purchase a ticket for a motion picture written or produced by one whom I know or suspect to be a Communist or a fellow traveler, or in which such a person performs, no matter how small a part. That is my choice and I am fully within my rights. I make no contribution to a philanthropic institution or to a public cause with which even one Communist is connected, or the record of which indicates an acceptance of or an alliance with Communists. That is my right and privilege and no one can prevent me from pursuing my choice.

Articles Criticized

I have recently received a number of letters from persons complaining about articles I wrote concerning Professor Frederick Schuman of Williams college and Professor L. C. Dunn of Columbia university. They contend that neither is a Communist. I do not know whether they are or not nor have I examined that question. Nor do I care to examine it. If they are Communists, that is their choice and responsibility; if they are not Communists, that is their choice and responsibility. It is none of my business to decide what others are to believe. All I did in connection with these gentlemen was to publish a record. They have ample access to space to add to the record.

What always strikes me as queer is that professors so rarely can take criticism. For instance, that professor in Indiana seems to be sore because his support of Wallace resulted in his rejection by his colleagues and by folks in the town where his college is situated. If he has the right of choice to support Wallace, they have the right of choice of rejecting him for supporting Wallace. He need not explain why he supports Wallace; they need not explain why they reject him. Rejection is as great a right as acceptance.

Within Their Rights

I should be the last man in the world to recommend that a professor be dismissed for his views, as long as those who employ him are satisfied that his scholarship and character are satisfactory. Again, it is none of my business whether he is retained or not. That is the responsibility of the president and trustees of the institution. Schuman and Dunn may turn out to be intellectual colossi compared with whom I may be the tiniest pigmy in the world.

That should not prevent me from pursuing my business, which is purveying the news and explaining it according to my lights. All I offer in extenuation of undertaking such a monumental task is a record of 31 years of the written word which can be checked for veracity and soundness of judgments. Errors will naturally be found in both categories, for I am only a reporter, not an omniscient scholar with the security of academic freedom. The question is: How does it all stack up against the record? Those who are satisfied with the record will accept this column; those who are not, will reject it. But the professors insist that they may not be rejected. They are infallible and sacrosanct.

The professors, apparently, do not want to risk an analysis of their records. They dislike being scrutinized or analyzed; they only seek praise and honors. So far as this column is concerned, they will get what they deserve according to the record they themselves choose to make. The choice is theirs.

Spring House Cleanin'

By Frank Tripp

NO MATTER how much industry one might care to instill into his children, no matter how rugged his own boyhood, he would be a mean father who would wish back the carpet stretcher and the old carpet flail.

Spring house cleaning in the manner of the 90s takes status of a museum piece to the modern housekeeper; in fact few of the most immaculate among them have much notion of the speck-hunt their grandmothers made of it.

Many who hover around 60 will know whereof I speak, can check my veracity, so I must exaggerate with caution. This is to be the honest truth about spring house cleaning as I knew it. I'll go to court before retracting a word.

TRIPP

There were only three in our family—just pop and mom and me. My father could cut high capers with tools, could repair or build anything. But he would have moved alone to Pat Walsh's railroaders' hotel, or Steve Bly-ley's, before he would have raised a finger with house cleaning. So I was mother's little helper, even to high school days, when her little helper weighed 180.

Come spring I envied pop's household philosophy. But mom had the Indian sign on me and together we houseceaned. It started as soon as the frost was out of the ground and warm sun peeked through.

Everything went out of every room, and I mean everything. Tacked down carpets came up. The pine floors were scrubbed on hands and knees. The woodwork and windows were washed, the shades unrolled, cleaned and maybe turned. The bedsteads were taken apart, heaven knows why; every coil of the springs was wiped off. The mattresses went out on the grass, were pounded with beaters and turned over and over again.

Blankets and washable winter bedding went through the old Armstrong washer—25 minutes of backache to every washerful. The curtains and portieres got theirs and down came the curtain poles and fixtures too—one point upon which mom and I vociferously disagreed.

But it was the carpets which made life just not worth living and took all the boy out of spring. Today's cliff dwellers don't know any more about carpets than a rabbit. We knew less about finished floors and rugs.

Carpets covered every floor except the kitchen. We had no bathroom—just a chummy two holer. Carpets were nailed each four inches close up to the baseboard. From coming up and down, the floor was so perforated around the edges that it looked like a sold out punch board.

Once extracted from their secure location floor coverings went to the clothes line and got the daylights whaled out of them. My mother's notion was that no carpet was clean until beaten in a brisk wind for one half day, then spread on the grass and swept both sides. This beating job couldn't be shirked, 'cause no matter where in the house mom worked she could tell when I stopped beating.

Then they all had to go back down and with the same dull and twisted carpet tacks, which were supposed to last at least three extractions. Most of our carpets were cheap ingrain which had to be stretched to lay flat.

The stretcher was a vicious gadget, an enemy of carpets and of all who used them. Prongs in a board, upon which you knelt, caught the carpet while you used a hooked-on lever to stretch the edge to the wall so you could tack it. Carpets tore, except the choice Brussels in the parlor, fingers bled, mothers raved and sons learned to curse, at least under their breath. The stair carpet also was a master creation of the devil.

Newspapers went under the carpets. I guess that's how newspapers got going—to be put under carpets and on pantry shelves. After the part they played in my young life as a carpet layer, why I went in the newspaper business is beyond me. Just to get even I guess.

Once when I handled a mail order advertising account the firm got an order from a 15 year old newspaper ad. They're all keyed, you know. I wrote the customer to learn how come. What do you think she replied?

She found the ad in a paper under a carpet in an old country place which she bought to remodel. We sold her a bill of goods.

Now let's hear radio tell one.

Just a Minute

By Jack Tarver

Please, No Left Turns!

Italy goes to the polls tomorrow.

Will the Commies get the boot?

The Italians always vote on the Sabbath. On the theory, one presumes, that no one would steal an election on Sunday.

The Communists may win tomorrow. Joe Stalin wrote the book on how to win friends and infiltrate governments.

But the Italians are not fools. They must realize that, in a collectivist government, it's the Russians who collect.

At any rate, the U. S. has thrown all its influence and most of its spaghetti into the Italian campaign.

It's too late now, but I can't help wishing that, realizing the need for politicking, we had sent congress itself and not left the job to amateurs.

The Hooked Look

By The Associated Press

LINN, Mo.—"If they have that look they want to get married," says L. L. Davis, Osage county circuit clerk, who no longer has to ask a young man and his fiancee which office they are looking for in the courthouse.

To save them embarrassment Davis tells them instead of asking them, and he says he has been 100 per cent right.

"Just what that look is I can't explain, but they all have it—every one of them."

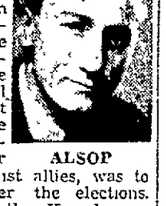
Kremlin's Next Move

By Stewart Alsop

ROME

ON THE eve of the all-important Italian election, political speculation in this intensely political city centers, only less than on the outcome of the election itself, on one question. It is an old, familiar question: what is the Kremlin up to now?

For the Soviets have unaccountably chosen a moment immediately before the crucial voting brusquely to reject the western proposal to return Trieste to Italy. And this despite the anguished pleas to Moscow by Palmiro Togliatti and other Italian Communists for some pro-Italian gesture. Moreover, and most mysteriously, there was no visible reason why the Kremlin should have made any response on the Trieste proposal at all. The least they could have done, in the interests of their Italian Communist allies, was to wait until after the elections. What, then, is the Kremlin up to?



ALSOP

The cables to the Quai Dorsay, to Downing Street and to Washington are humming with speculation on the answer to this conundrum, and the politically-minded Italians are arguing their favorite theories. Four main theories have been advanced to explain the baffling Soviet action. None of them seems entirely sensible. Yet they make an interesting list.

Theory number one is simple: "The Russians are just stupid." There may be something to this, but it is obviously a dangerous basis for assessing Soviet policy.

Theory number two—and it is widely held — seems even more dangerous: "The Kremlin wants to lose the Italian election." It is reasoned that the Kremlin is now conscious that a victory for the Communists here might well create a situation in which war with the west would be inevitable. The Kremlin does not want war now. Therefore the Kremlin is consciously throwing the Italian election to the non-Communists. There is a certain odd logic to this reasoning. Yet it has an obvious patina of wishful thinking.

Theory number three might be called the pat and slap theory. The Kremlin habitually deals with its intended victims by means of a series of pats and slaps. Thus the Soviets have patted the Italians by such loudly proclaimed gestures as their stand in favor of returning to Italy the former Italian colonies. They have now decided that it is time to show the iron beneath the velvet by a good hard slap in the Italian face. If this is indeed the motivation behind the Russian stand on Trieste, the Kremlin has badly miscalculated. No one here is yet ready to write off the possibility of a Communist success at the polls. Yet no one doubts that the contrasting western and Russian positions on Trieste have sharply and perhaps disastrously weakened the Communist bloc.

Theory number four is simply that the Soviet strategists have written off in advance the chances of capturing Italy by legal and democratic means. Thus they have decided instead to strengthen their position in the Balkans by a tough stand on Trieste, meanwhile planning the capture of Italy later and by other means.

Take Your Choice

You pays your money and takes your choice of the four theories. Meanwhile, the passionate argument over the Russian stand on Trieste serves to underline the most striking of the first impressions which crowd in upon the mind of the newly arrived observer in this ancient capital.

Surely there have not been any other elections in Italy quite like these. For the principal candidates are clearly not Premier Alide de Gasperi or Palmiro Togliatti or any other Italian leaders. The real candidates are rather quite obviously the United States and the Soviet Union. Moreover, and strangely, the Italian people of all shades of political opinion recognize and wholly accept this fact.

The posters with which every building in Rome is plastered from eye level down tell the story most vividly. These posters concern themselves hardly at all with domestic issues. Rather, they consist of praise or abuse of the United States or the Soviet Union.

The most ubiquitous Communist poster is typical. Its central feature is a melancholy lady, presumably Italy, about to be crushed under a sinister shower of American grenades, bombs, machine guns and other instruments of war. It is accompanied by appropriate quotations about "American imperialism" culled from the orations of Representative Vito Marcantonio and Henry A. Wallace. On the other side, there are posters representing Russia as a spider and a death's head, and slogans extolling American generosity and freedom.

There was a patch of sunlight at our feet
Where all through winter no sunlight ha been;
The grimy walls of each tall, soot-streake house

Our apathy to some exotic dream.

We strained at windows, too long latche to fling

They Never Learned

By TRUMAN TWILL

The two happiest husbands I know would have the remotest idea what to do with a ha mer and a sack of nails, they insist. A solder iron is associated with black magic, they c tend. A screw driver, a brace and bit, a ch and a plane are dangerous implements t shouldn't be left lying about where carel hands might pick them up.

They have good excuses for not knowing h to wield a spade, a wad of wallpaper clear or a paint brush; they point out that they ne learned. They are equally unlearned in handling of chamois skins, hedge clippers, s plungers and lawn mowers, though any mo can learn how to run a lawn mower.

These happy husbands have never tinke a busted lamp or repaired a leaky fau They are total strangers to the uses of turpe tine, polishing wax, shellac, patent glass cle ers, the stuff that one pours down slugg drains; pliers and even garden hoses, wh most men like to play with for the sheer joy squirting water.

They refuse to lift the hood of an automob to stare helplessly at a stalled engine on pretext that they know what they are look for. As for changing a tire on the side of highway, the idea would be so preposterous them if their wives suggested it they'd go in convulsions of laughter. So it's never suggest To hear them tell it, they don't even know h to make oil come out of an oilcan.

They are hel less, they point out, and their wives agree.

At the same time they are generous in the admiration for their wives, who do know h to do these things, and for other husbands w are "handymen." Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

AS GEORGES fixed questioning eyes upon my face, watching every nuance of expression upon it, I hoped wildly that what my father called my "tell-tale face" could be transformed by a tremendous effort of will power into a "poker one." But when he gave a triumphant little cry," I knew that I had failed, and I sent my mind scurrying around in search of an answer which would fill my urgent need.

"Ah!" Georges said, "I knew it! If your husband were in my place, you never would forgive him for not telling the truth about his plan to postpone you marriage to him or abandon it until he should find out the sentiments of another woman to whom he once had been betrothed"

His long-winded sentence gave me the chance to pull myself together, and as a mask I assumed an air of petulance, which, indeed, was not much of a mask, Georges' stirring of this particular "dish of mush" as Dicky would term it, was fast wearing my patience thin

"Just a second, Georges," I said, "until we get this record straight"

"What is there to get straight?" he countered, and his own voice showed strain "It appears very clear to me."

"If you listen quietly, without interrupting," I told him in the tone of strict school-teacher reproving an impertinent pupil, "I will explain my meaning to you"

I did not wait for his rather mumbled and jumbled attempt at apology, but struck directly across it.

"In the first place," I told him, "this particular question never would arise between my husband and me, nor between any husband and wife who have outgrown their adolescence, as you most certainly have not."

He was almost out of his chair when I snapped a "school-ma'am" command at him

"Sit down," I said, and he sank back into his chair Not only that, he closed his lips which had been opened for wild protest, and I went relentlessly on.

"I can imagine my husband falling in love with some other woman, and telling me about it," I said, "I can, with an effort, imagine his telling me of some past love affair, if inconceivably, there were anything connected with it that I ought to know But, not by the wildest stretch of my imagination, can I conceive his getting an attack of conscience such as the one from which you are now suffering, and the unloading the conscience upon me. "I can tell you very frankly that if my husband had treated me to such a dish of mush before our marriage, I never should have married him And I can tell you, truthfully, that if I had found it out from some other source, I should have been angry at first, then laughed at his childishness, and finally have been thankful that he never brought the thing to an issue between us, an issue which could have had but one solution the breaking of our marriage No woman's pride, as I told you before, could stand such a revelation from her betrothed husband."

There was a long silence and I knew that his egotism was 'licking its wounds" But when, at last he answered me, there was a note in his voice that reassured me It was a nuance of hope running through the self-depreciation of his words.

"I suppose I look to you like a prize idiot," he said

"No, indeed," I told him warmly, "but I think you are a very foolish, deluded boy, and the sooner you snap out of this maze of tangled thinking, the better it will be for everybody"

There was another silence, and then Georges looked over at me with a look of complete surrender upon his mobile face

"Please tell me what you wish me to do, and I will do it," he said

Finding God Through Christ

A Sermonette

By REV. E. H. WIERTH

Pastor of First Evangelical and Reformed Church

Text, Matthew 16 16 "But Simon Peter answered and said, 'Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God"

* * *

"I know not how that Calvary's cross
A world from sin could free;
I only know its matchless love
Has brought God's love to me"

Harry Webb Farrington.

"JESUS of Nazareth," exclaims Carlyle, "our divinest symboll Higher has human thought not yet reached" For millions of people Jesus has been and is something more than simply an historic figure: He is also a symbol—"our divinest symbol"—of reality. In Him, a multitude such as no man could number have dared to believe, we have our clearest glimpse of the fundamental nature of the universe.

There is justification for this bold affirmation, for "the nature of anything is the best it can grow into,' as Aristotle said once long ago And the universe has grown into Jesus Christ, beyond whom, in respect of moral excellence, 'human thought has not yet reached"

But there is another way of approaching God through Jesus—the way not of philosophy but of discipleship The way of the philosopher is by no means to be despised Travel it if you can But some find it difficult to think their way through to God even with the aid of so divine a symbol as that which is afforded in Jesus Far more rewarding is the way of discipleship. 'Follow Me," said the Master. And as men do "follow Him," that is, as they strive to become like Him, they develop His faith as to the nature of the universe. Finding love in their own hearts, they become persuaded that there is love at the heart of the world.

Is there, when all is said, any other way of becoming "sure" of the reality and goodness of God? Undeniably Jesus is a fact and, no doubt, a significant fact, concerning the universe. But cancer and insanity, greed and cruelty, these also are facts and what, one wonders, is their significance? So long as you remain, so to speak, outside the experience of Jesus, you may contemplate the fact of Him with alternating feelings of hope and dismay—of hope when you think only of Him' of dismay when you consider all that in nature and in human society appears to be quite indifferent, if not actually hostile, to Him. Only when by "following" Him you develop within yourself a love that is able to suffer long and be kind and, through persistent kindness, to conquer—only then do you become thoroughly convinced that love is not only the greatest but the most powerful and significant thing in the world, that it has indeed cosmic significance

Architect Includes New Ideas in "Small House with Big House Floor Plan

YOUR HOME TODAY and TOMORROW

by W. Wadsworth Wood

The average house is apt to have depressions in the lawn and road after a heavy winter. If these are not attended to they will grow in size. The low-spot in the lawn will produce weeds and rank grass; and the low spot in the road or path will increase in size, as the edges break down under use.

Lawn depressions are cured by scalping off the turf, laying it to one side and then filling the depression with loose earth to the exact level of the surrounding surface. The turf is then placed on top of the new fill and pounded down with the back of the spade or shovel. At first it will be about an inch or so above lawn level, but will gradually sink to exact level with the rest of the lawn. The use of the old turf is more desirable than new seeding of the patch.

Depressions or holes in a road are very easy to remedy. The first step is to cut the edges down vertically so that the fill will remain in place. New fill will usually slip out of a dish-like depression. The best material to use is clean cinders or broken stone pounded into place. Gravel is not good fill, as it is round in shape and will work out. Broken stone or cinders are sharp and rough, and dig in and stay in place.

After a new road patch has been placed, it should be allowed to weather for a week; and after that the road may be raked and smoothed out. The best procedure for dressing up a roadway or path, is to rake it across, and not lengthwise. When you rake a road lengthwise, it never looks as smooth and finished as it does when raked across, and what is more, the road will not acquire the proper crown which cross-raking produces. The exact procedure for this job is to turn the rake over, and with the back of it, draw all the loose topping toward the center of the road and away from the edges or gutters; and then repeat the performance with the teeth of the rake engaging the surface of the road.

If you are really interested in making a roadway look its best; you might try raking lengthwise, and observe the result. Then try the cross-raked formula, and decide which of them produces the better-looking road.

FIRST AID TO AILING HOUSE

—By ROGER C. WHITMAN—

Ceilings Too High

Q. We find that the house we bought last summer is hard to heat. All the ceilings are over 8 feet high, so we would like to put up false ceilings in an effort to reduce the heating area. How should we go about this and what sort of material should we use that is inexpensive and practical?

A. You could put up a gypsum wallboard or a fibre wallboard, attached to a framework of two-by-fours. The kitchen and bathroom ceilings could have gypsum wallboard, to be varnish-sized and then painted with enamel undercoater and enamel. Other ceilings can be either painted or papered after proper preparations. Two-by-fours spaced about 16 inches on centers, and fastened onto the studs in the wall should support the ceilings, unless the rooms are very large.

Wall Spaces Filled

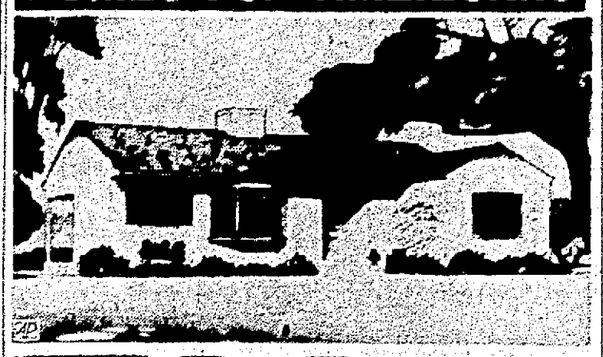
Q. The previous owner of our house poured ashes and wood shavings between the walls which surround the kitchen. This was done from an unfinished room directly over the kitchen. We have been told this is highly impractical as it adds to the dampness. We want to get it out. Is that right? If so, how can we do it?

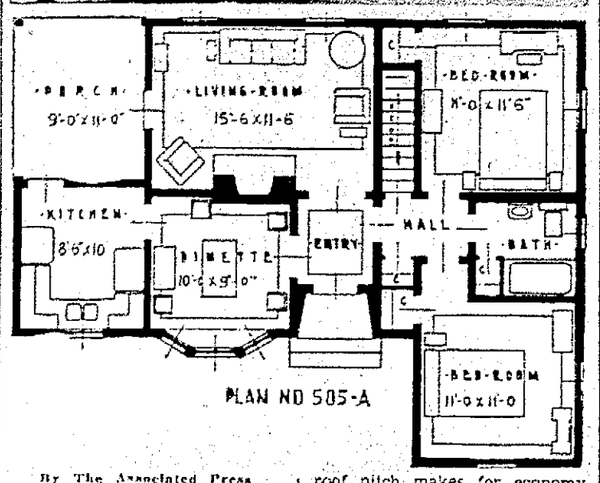
A. Are the walls really damp? If not, you had better leave things as they are. To get the stuff out, you would have to make holes in the walls and then try to shovel it out. The resulting mess would be appalling. But if the walls are really damp, the stuff should be removed.

FIREMEN HEAR TALK

KENTON—Kenton Fire Chief Ralph Jones and members of the Kenton fire department were hosts this week to a group of 50 volunteer firemen from other communities of Hardin county. At a meeting at the Kenton fire station, Charles R. Scott, chief of the bureau of fire protection, division of the state fire marshall, spoke in behalf of rural fire protection.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS





PLAN NO 505-A

By The Associated Press

A small house with a big floor plan—this design by Shaw & Renneker, architects, for the Small Home Plan Service, Box 2821 Woodlawn Station, Birmingham 6, Ala., offers an interesting layout. Living room and porch are on the rear facing a landscaped garden. Access to the porch from both living room and kitchen facilitates outdoor dining.

A center entrance hall, seldom found in small hoines, is another feature of this plan. A well-lighted dinette has a bay window on the front. A low roof pitch makes for economy in construction.

This house covers an area of 988 square feet, of which the porch comprises 99 square feet. A part basement of about 250 square feet can accomodate a gravity warm air heating plant and storage space. Suggested specifications include exterior walls of frame, brick veneer, or concrete blocks; roof of composition shingles; plastered interior walls and ceilings; hardwood floors throughout except in bath and kitchen where pine floors are covered with linoleum.

TIPS FOR PAINTING JOBS BY AMATEURS

There are several tips for amateur painters to use if they expect to achieve good results in the finished job, reports Practical Builder, Chicago.

A good quality paint is very important. Paint should be thoroughly mixed before use. If it needs thinning, thin sparingly with turpentine. The surface to be painted should be clean and dry—free of oil, dust particles, dirt, etc. Before applying paint, pour off most of the liquid into another container, then stir thoroughly whatever solidified pigment may remain in the original can. Then pour back the liquid and stir thoroughly, and then "box" the paint by pouring it several times from one container to another. Remember while painting, pause from time to time to stir against lumps, and in this way you will have a smooth uniform coating. Be sure to follow the directions of the manufacturer. He has prepared his product and is more equipped than anyone else to give advice on its use.

Use a good quality brush, of sensible size—don't try to get into tight corners with a big brush or do a wall with a little one. If brush is new it should be given a 24 hour soaking in linseed oil before putting in paint.

Allow plenty of time between coats—enough so that paint has dried hard and firm. For best results interior painting should be done when air is warm and dry, and with plenty of air circulating.

In using colors, when choosing from color charts, remember the color of the finished job will be somewhat deeper because it has been applied to a greater surface. In choosing colors, remember also, the simple rules will always apply. The blues and greens are "cool" colors and the yellows and orange shades are "warm". The light colors give a room an appearance of greater spaciousness while the dark colors will do just the opposite. Remember, it costs no more to have a good color scheme than it does to have a poor one, and it is the wise painter who chooses his colors careful and harmoniously.

Your Good Health

New Solution of Penicillin

It is often just a little bit of extra "know-how" that makes all the difference between a real cure and an unsuccessful treatment. For some time now, penicillin solutions of various types have been used for the treatment of chronic running ears and many of them have been disappointing, though, in theory, the penicillin should have done the trick by clearing up the infection in the middle part of the ear from which the discharge seen in such cases comes.

More recently, it has been found that not the penicillin but the water solution in which it was applied was at fault. When the same amounts of penicillin were used in a solution of 35 per cent alcohol and 50 per cent glycerine, excellent results were obtained.

This preparation has a number of advantages. It has no detrimental action on the penicillin. The alcohol and glycerine tend to dry out the tissues, causing shrinkage of materials in the ear rather than having the swelling effect of water. In addition this solution sticks to the tissues and hence keeps the penicillin in contact with the affected area.

In carrying out the treatment, the ear is thoroughly cleansed by the physician with a solution of alcohol. The ear canal is then filled with the penicillin-alcohol-glycerine mixture, and it is allowed to remain for about twenty minutes. Some cotton is then put into the ear canal.

The patient is instructed to remove the cotton at night before he retires, to cleanse the ear with alcohol solution, then to put in the penicillin preparation, and again to place cotton in the ear canal. The patient is advised to sleep on the side which is not affected. In the morning the treatment is repeated.

This procedure is followed for about two weeks; then treatment is discontinued for about one week, and the patient returns to the physician for further treatment and observation.

With this treatment, it is possible to clear up the infection within three weeks, in most cases.

In those instances in which the treatment does not seem to be overcoming the infection, the patient uses the penicillin for one week, and then employes a preparation of glycerite of hydrogen peroxide for one week.

Dr. Aubrey G. Rawlings of San Francisco, has found this treatment more effective than any other in cases of chronic running ear which can be cleared up by means other than surgery. Of course, the treatment can only be employed under the direction of the physician in those cases in which he thinks it would be suitable.

Questions and Answers

M. W. I have been in bed eleven weeks. I have a pain in the back of my neck. When up a little while, my heart starts beating hard and fast. What could cause this?

A. It is impossible to tell, without a thorough study, the exact cause of this disturbance. Some of the symptoms may be due to a nervous disorder. On the other hand, there may be some rheumatic infection present or a disturbance of the upper part of the spine.

Let's learn the truth about Cancer!

Mrs. Norton wouldn't even talk about cancer until her doctor found one of its symptoms on her breast. By scientific treatment—begun in time—she was cured. But too many women will die before another Spring if they don't see a doctor when they suspect one of cancer's danger signals.*

* CANCER'S DANGER SIGNALS

1. Any sore that does not heal . . . particularly about the tongue, mouth or lips.
2. A painless lump or thickening, especially in the breast, lip, or tongue.
3. Bloody discharge from the nipple or irregular bleeding from any of the other natural body openings.
4. Progressive change in the color or size of a wart or mole.
5. Persistent indigestion.
6. Persistent hoarseness, unexplained cough, or difficulty in swallowing.
7. Any radical change in normal bowel habits.

Billy Adams might have died of cancer—if his parents hadn't taken him to a doctor the minute they suspected one of cancer's danger signals.* Thanks to proper medical care, Billy has a whole lifetime ahead. But many other children will die of cancer this year—unless their parents have them examined by a doctor.

It knocked the props out from under Old Jud Williams—the day the doctors told him he had cancer. But because it was recognized in time Jud still has a lot of happy days ahead. Now Jud tells his friends "Don't be afraid of cancer—be intelligent about cancer. See your doctor!"

Let's stop running away from cancer. Let's learn the truth about cancer. How? By helping your doctor help you. For only he can guard you against this disease that strikes, on the average, one out of every two American homes. If . . . you suspect one of cancer's danger signals*—see your doctor at once! For time is one of his greatest weapons.

In Plain Words By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

THE Italian elections tomorrow will be a milestone in history because of this big question:

Will the Communists get enough votes to take a hand in the government or maybe even enough to run the government and make Italy Communist?

The story isn't ended even if the Communists lose, or don't get enough votes to run the government.

If they don't win power in Sunday's voting, in the end they may try to grab it, perhaps weeks or months from now.

James Marlow

About 26,000,000 of Italy's 46,000,000 people are expected to vote for members of the new parliament which consists of a senate and chamber of deputies.

Candidates represent more than 12 political parties, ranging from the Communists to people who'd like to see the king or fascism return.

A Communist Italy would be a big force in pushing France and the rest of Europe toward communism, this country has intervened openly in the election campaign.

Here are some of the things done by this country to influence Italians to steer clear of the Communists.

In a broadcast to Italy yesterday Attorney General Clark said no Italian Communist ever will be permitted to enter this country.

THIS WILL JOLT a lot of Italians into thinking twice about communism since many Italians want to come here to live.

Our state department has warned Italy that if it goes Communist it can expect no help from our European recovery program.

Two weeks ago this country, with Britain and France, proposed letting Italy join the United Nations.

Russia has blocked this because the U. S. won't let Russia's close friends—Romania, Bulgaria, Hungary, Albania, Finland—join UN.

The U. S. has given Italy, free, a couple of dozen merchants ships although this didn't have to be done.

The reason given for doing it: To make up for Italian ships seized and lost during World War II.

FOUR DAYS AGO the U. S., Britain and France decided to give Italy $31,000,000 in gold taken in Germanuw at the war's end.

The U. S. announced this. The reason given: That the gold really belonged to Italy but had been taken by the Nazis.

Only last October this country, Britain and France said Italy could not have the gold. Within a week of the election, they did an about-face.

This country has poured about $1,900,000,000 into Italy in help of various kinds since the war's end.

And Italy is supposed to get help worth many more millions of dollars under the European recovery plan—if it doesn't turn Communist.

As another nudge, this government said this week American officials will see what can be done about boosting farm output in southern Italy and Sicily.

ONE OF THIS COUNTRY'S most important moves involved Trieste, which belonged to Italy before the war but now is a free territory between Italy and Yugoslavia, Russia's Communist ally.

After the war Italy and Yugoslavia both wanted Trieste. But it was made a free territory by the U. S., Russia, France and Britain at one of their peace talks a couple of years ago.

Those big powers have not been able to agree on a governor for Trieste. And—a couple of weeks ago the U. S. suggested to Russia that Trieste be handed back to Italy. The Italian people want this.

That put Russia on the spot. Saying "no" would offend the Italians and cost the Italian Communists votes. Saying "Yes" would offend Yugoslavia. Russia has not given a flat answer.

In addition to all this, Italian-Americans in this country have deluged their relatives and friends in Italy with thousands of letters urging them to vote against the Communists.

CONCERN SUBSCRIBES TO BLUE CROSS PLAN

Water Co. Acts on Hospital Care for Employes.

Participation by the Marion Water Co. in the Blue Cross hospital service plan was announced today by L. Otis Porter, company manager. Approximately 135 persons representing employes and their families will have coverage under the plan.

Action by the water company follows a request made by the Central Ohio Hospital association and Ohio Medical association for all employers in Marion to cooperate with local hospitals on the non-profit hospital service and local doctor's plan for surgery.

Company participation will go into effect May 16, Mr. Porter said. After that date employes may enter any hospital in Ohio and receive a maximum of 30 days hospital care without limit as to rate per day or total bill for 16 items covered in the plan, and up to $150.00 in cash to help defray surgical costs, maternity cases or emergency care in case of accident.

At least three other local companies are making plans to follow suit according to J. A. Mautz, administrator of the Marion City hospital. These companies are The Van Atta Supply Co., Wyandot Popcorn Co., and the Marion Pattern Works. The sole purpose of the Blue Cross plan is to solve the problem of necessary hospital care for employed people and their dependents on a non-profit community service basis.

Cost of operating the City hospital has advanced greatly since the war, according to Mr. Mautz. Each patient must pay $50 the day they are admitted unless they can present a Blue Cross identification or some acceptable guarantee that the bill will be paid in full direct to the hospital. The Blue Cross plan eliminates all claims and other red tape at the hospital. Figures at the hospital indicate that patients receive benefits from Blue Cross averaging $13.00 a day.

DRIBER FINED $10

One conviction was reported by the state highway patrol yesterday. Arthur Vogel of Bucyrus was fined $10 and costs in municipal court when he pleaded guilty to a charge of driving a motor vhicle with insufficint lights. He was given a citation Wednesday on highway 4 for his appearance today.

LAUNCH SEA SCOUT SHIP IN CEREMONY

Navy Clu bProject Christened in Honor of Veteran.

Marion's only Sea Scout ship was officially launched with appropriate christening ceremonies Thursday night at the Navy club.

Having been known only as "No. 59" during a four month period of shipbuilding, she was christened "Sea Scout Ship Bob Brown" in honor of Robert J. Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Brown, of 301 Latourette street who lost his life aboard the submarine "Swordfish" in naval action during World War II.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown were guests of honor for the occasion. Parents of the crew members and the sponsors committee and their wives also attended launching ceremonies. Christening ceremonies were conducted by Arthur Watt, chairman of the Navy Club scout committee.

Mrs. Brown was bestowed the title "Honorary Skipper" and presented a corsage of roses by the ship's crew. A sketch of the ship's shoulder patch insignia depicting a frontal view of a submarine with a leaping swordfish crossing her bow was presented to the crew by ship's artist, Richard Hazen.

The ship's complement of 32 men and three officers include skipper Alfred Whittington in command assisted by mates Edward Seaton and Earl Baseler.

It was announced that the Navy department has notified the ship that several items of naval surplus property have been released and ordered shipped for local use. Announcement also was made that the ship's crew would be guests of the Hanley Engineering Service of Prospect today for instruction in boat building, the theory of jet propulsion and a ride on the Scioto. Lunch was served concluding the ceremonial.

DEATHS and FUNERALS

Henry Bachman

Henry Bachman, a former Marion resident, died Thursday in Arlington, Va., where he and his wife, the former Miss Margaret Burke of Marion, had spent the winter. PREVIEWS OF COMING ATTRACTIONS AT THE THEATERS

"Lost Honeymoon" At Joy Theater

"Lost Honeymoon" starring Franchot Tone will be shown Sunday and Monday at the newly remodeled Joy theater in Oakland Heights, formerly known as the Oakland theater.

Tuesday through Thursday the offering will be "Louisiana" with Margaret Lindsay and Jimmy Davis.

The Dead End Kids will star in the film, "The Bowery Buckaroos," which will be the attraction Friday and Saturday. Short features and cartoons will be shown with each main feature.

"The Naked City" At Palace Theater

"The Naked City," a realistic thriller hailed as the season's most engrossing screen drama, will be shown Sunday through Wednesday at the Palace theater.

Starring Barry Fitzgerald in the role of Detective Dan Muldoon of the New York police department's homicide squad, the picture was filmed almost entirely in New York City.

The story unravels the connection of a group of persons with a mysterious murder. It deals with the killing of a girl model after which the methodical development of the police investigation unfolds step by step. A crime is solved and a murderer slain by his pursuers. Detective Muldoon is called to investigate the murder of the model, and as the police proceedings unfold, another model, her fiance, a doctor and a killer are involved.

Featured are Don Taylor as Jimmy Halloran, a younger detective working with Muldoon, Howard Duff as a crook and murder suspect in the film, and Dorothy Hart as the other model.

Billed for Thursday through Saturday is a double feature, "Tenth Avenue Angel" and "Christmas Eve." The former stars Margaret O'Brien with Angela Lansbury, George Murphy and Phyllis Thaxter, and heading the cast in the latter are George Raft, George Brent, Randolph Scott, Joan Blondell, Virginia Field, Dolores Moran and Ann Harding.

JACK CARSON AND ANN SOTHERN are co-starred in the new hit musical film, "April Showers," which is now playing through Thursday at the Ohio theater.

A song-and-dance story of back-stage life, it tells of the days when vaudeville was at the top of the show business, and of a family which actually toured the nation about that time. Jack Carson and Ann Sothern are seen as vaudeville headliners of the two-a-day world whose act is known from coast to coast. Principal supporting players in the cast include Robert Alda, who portrays a vaudeville hoofer, S. Z. Sakall, as a friendly hotel proprietor, and Bobby Ellis as the talented young son of Jack and Ann.

Hit tunes heard in the film include "Are You From Dixie?" "Carolina in the Morning," "Put On Your Old Gray Bonnet," "Cuddle Up a Little Closer," "Pretty Baby," the title song, "April Showers" and a number of others.

Opening Friday to run for seven days will be the rollicking film, "Sitting Pretty," starring Clifton Webb as a self-admired genius and baby-sitter extraordinary.

The film deals with a down-to-earth problem and its hilarious complications with which every family is familiar, that of getting a reliable baby-sitter. Webb as Belvedere comes to the home of Harry and Tacey King, played by Maureen O'Hara and Robert Young, informing them that he is the baby sitter for whom they advertised. He gently informs the couple that he's a genius, that he hates children and that he will have no trouble at all handling the three King offspring, all of which turns out to be true.

Marion Cub Hopefuls Get 1st Real Test of Baseball Training Seaso

Rookies Show Wares During 14 Innings of Squad Game

By BILL DIEM

There is an old story they tell about this time of year about the rookie that wrote home, "I'll be home soon, ma. They're starting to curve 'em now."

That's what they'll soon be writing home out of the Marion Cubs camp and one Cub candidate already said it, but with a twist.

That was catcher Tom Gatts who said, "They're starting to burn them in now," after hitting nothing any solider than air as three pitches whistled by in the thirteenth inning of a 14-inning intra-squad game at Lincoln Park yesterday.

It was Nick Alivojvodick chucking. Up for his three-inning stint, he really made that ball sing on its way in. Nick, a 22-year-old righthander weighing just under 200 and standing six-one, came to the Cubs in August of last year but didn't see much action. He played for Hutchinson, Kansas, in 1946, and started the 1947 season with Clinton, Iowa, but jumped contract early in the season and was out of baseball until August.

He set them down one-two-three in the first inning he worked, but in the second inning, he faltered, issuing two wild pitches. No pitcher now with the Cubs has a faster ball, and probably none in the Ohio-Indiana league. If he can obtain the necessary control there probably won't be any better pitcher.

First Tryout

The Cubs had their first real tryout yesterday in their first intra-squad game of the season, and while several of them earned a trip home, others practically clinched positions on the team with their stellar play.

The best performance turned in was that of Bill Bolduc of Cambridge, Mass. who all but tucked away the third base job when he rapped out four hits—a single, two doubles, and a triple—in seven trips to the plate for a .571 average. And he was just as good defensively, robbing one batter of a base hit when he scooped up a hard hit ball that should have been out of reach and fired it to first on time for the putout.

He's another experienced player. In 1946, he played the full season with Fayettesville, and last year was signed to a Marion Cubs contract, but went back home after one day here because of illness of his mother. At Fayettsville, he batted this year.

Top Hurler

Top pitching performance was turned in by Ramon Peet, an 18-year-old righthander from Ashtabula who played everything but baseball in high school. He struck out seven, walked two, and allowed but one bingle in the four innings he worked, facing only 15 men. He's got a fast ball, a deceptive change-up, and his curves were breaking just right. He wears a perpetual cocky grin, the kind of look baseball players like to develop to rile their opponents. Peet was a cage star in Ashtabula High, prouder of the fact that his team played in the state finals one year than of his hurling prowess. He weighs 170 pounds, stands five feet, 10½ inches.

Veteran Frank DeLuca set them down one-two-three in two of the innings he worked, and allowed but one hit in another to match Peet's performance. Frank had nearly worked himself up to Triple-A ball when a slide into second broke his leg one day last year forcing him to start all over. You can look for both of these boys to be around awhile.

Two Look Good

Two other pitchers who looked good yesterday were Lou Ferraro of Racine, Wis, and Ray Burgermeister of Blissfield, Mich. Both are righthanders. Ferraro, who played football and basketball in high school and baseball in a semi-pro city loop, allowed three hits but blanked his teammates for three innings. He's six feet tall, weighs 175, and is 19 years old.

Burgemeister, who is called Burger or Bill, allowed one run and two hits in the first inning he pitched, but set them down in short order the other two, striking out four. He played basketball and baseball for four years with Matamora, Ohio, High school. He is 20 years old, five-ten, and 185.

Second baseman Nick Rico, one of the two unsigned boys Frank DeLuca brought down with him from Toronto, Ont., went hitless in four trips to the plate but made up for it on his last one, sending a fat pitch of lefty Simon Pavkov over the right field fence for the only homer of the day. Pavkov, an Akron East star last year, walked three and allowed the homer in the single inning he worked. He's still a good bet, though.

Keith Bell, DeLuca's other protoge, went hitless in three trips. Both boys are recent graduates of what would correspond to our high schools. Both are 18 years old and played senior baseball in Toronto.

Marionite Hits 2

Marionite Mike McKinney hit two singles in four trips to make a very credable showing. McKinney, a candidate for the second base position, is a native of Washington, C. H., but now lives in Marion at 174½ North Main street and is an employe of Jack Johnson Motors. He is 25 years old and has played baseball at high school, in the Army Air Corps, and for the University of Cincinnati. He stands five-ten and weighs 185.

Another boy from this area, Eddie Staiger of Bucyrus, had tougher luck at the plate. An outfielder and graduate of Bucyrus High school last year, Eddie went hitless in five trips. He played baseball for two years with the Redmen. He, like McKinney, is trying out on his own.

Toughest luck of all went to outfielder Gerald Peters of Chesterton, Ind. who struck out seven times and walked once.

ALVIN DARK, a 303 hitter with Milwaukee in 1947, takes over as shortstop of the Boston Braves and his play may make or break the club.

The Tribe meets the New York Giants today and tomorrow at Cleveland's municipal stadium in the last two pre-season exhibition games. . . . Outfielder Thurman Tucker can boast a quarter Indian ancestry on his father's side.

AKRON NORTH LEADS MANSFIELD RELAYS

By The Associated Press

MANSFIELD, O., April 17 — The 17th annual Mansfield Relays got down to payoff time today with Akron North leading the field by two points.

North captured an early edge with a record-breaking win in the four-mile relay yesterday—the only final event on the first day. Dick Mains, Marvin Crostner, Jack Wagner and Don Shisam toured the four miles in 19:25.2, some 75 yards ahead of second-place Cleveland West Tech.

Third place went to Cleveland Collinwood. All three teams broke the record of 19:41.1 set in 1947 by Cleveland Cathedral Latin. West Tech's time was 19:36 5, Collinwood's 19.38.1.

Akron South and Cleveland Cathedral Latin took fourth and fifth.

Sixty-four schools sent 949 athletes to the current Mansfield Relays—not a record entry but one large enough to call for a number of preliminaries yesterday and more this morning.

Preliminaries today began at 10 a. m., with finals at 2 p. m.

Cleveland Central, second place team winner last year, looked like this year's first place outfit. Defending team champion is Columbus Central.

While early preliminaries and the four-mile relay were being run off in one part of town, the Mansfield High school football team was ending spring practice in the new Mansfield football stadium.

Next year's varsity trimmed the seniors of last year's squad, 19-15, despite the yeoman work of George Doyle, a one-armed lad who played halfback for the seniors.

Doyle scored both senior touchdowns, kicked the extra point, did the kicking off, much of the tackling and collected 182 yards

CINCINNATI, April 17 — The Reds came home today for their first Crosley Field appearance of the 1948 season, an exhibition against the Syracuse Chiefs of the International league.

Johnny Vander Meer was named by Manager Johnny Neun to hurl for the Reds, while Jimmy Wallace, formerly with the Boston Braves, will go for the Chiefs.

The Reds cut loose with 17 hits while walloping the Chiefs 16-2 yesterday at Richmond. Ind. Hank Sauer, the club's leading home run hitter, was not in the line-up because of an ankle injured in pre-game batting practice, but Johnny Wyrostek did the honors.

After Frankie Baumholtz singled on Bed Bebber's first pitch, Wyrostek smacked a homer.

The Reds cuts loose to collect their third eight-run inning of the spring. Frank Seward was victim of the attack, leaving the mound in the eighth with none away, as veteran Alex Mustaikas came onto the mound. The Reds sent 13 batters to the plate and six hit safely. Claude Corbitt drove in three runs with a triple to right-centerfield.

Ewell Blackwell, who is slated to face the Pirates in the opener here Monday, said "never felt better in my life" after throwing 15 minutes of batting practice.

"I'll make no predictions," he said, "but I am confident I'll better my last record."

"The Harding speedsters made a better showing than the score indicates," Coach Somerlot said, "but the boys were placed at a disadvantage in running on an oval after having done all their practicing on a straight-away. Giants Club Indians, 15-7

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, April 17 — The New York Giants stormed into Cleveland Stadium today—and Indians' President Bill Veeck was thinking about adding a quick extension to his famed fence-within-a-fence.

Manager Lou Boudreau hailed his 1948 Indians as "the best club I have ever had," but he was not referring to the manner in which the Tribe took a 15-7 trouncing from the slugging New Yorkers in an exhibition tilt at Owensboro, Ky., yesterday.

Boudreau talked at length on the bright side of the wigwam picture as he declared, "We are improved over last year. Southpaws Gene Bearden and Bill Kennedy were two of the pleasant pitching surprises of the spring campaign."

"I believe they will help us a lot," he said, "and then, Joe Tipton, Allie Clark and Johnny Berardino will be in plenty of games."

Charley Wensloff, former New York Yankee right-hander purchased by the Tribe last week after he refused to report to the Philadelphia Phillies, arrived last night from his San Francisco home. Wensloff told Boudreau he was in fine condition.

Five of the Giants' "Murderers' Row" rapped home runs yesterday as they ran up a 15-0 lead and shelled Bob Muncrief. Lyman Lindo and Les Webber from the mound in the first eight innings.

Sid Gordon capped the barrage with a grand slam homer in the fourth. Bobby Thomson, Walker Cooper, Whitey Lockman and former Indian Jack Conway also hit homers.

Joe Gordon did some face-saving for the Indians in the bottom half of the eighth with another grand slam round tripper, which climaxed a six-run inning.

SMITTY'S TO PRACTICE

Leo Durocher Denies He's a Timid Yesman Confused About Dodgers

By International News Service

NEW YORK, April 17 — Leo Durocher vigorously denied today recent reports in some New York papers to the effect that:

(1) He had become timid.

(2) He is merely a yesman for Branch Rickey.

(3) He is confused about his ball club.

"If I've become shy and retiring," said the pilot of the Dodgers, "then the leopard sure can change his spots.

"As for being a stooge for Branch Rickey, whoever said that should have heard me battling with him about Dwain Sloat. That's the young lefthander we brought up from Texas.

Says Sloat Is Good

"I told Rickey that Sloat was going to stick with the club or we wouldn't play ball. That kid has what it takes. He's fast and he's got a knuckler and a hook that will make any hitter sit up and take notice.

"Then I read where somebody wrote that I didn't know how good an outfielder Carl Furillo is. That's about as silly as saying I don't know how well Peewee Reese can play shortstop.

"All that talk about confusion on the Dodgers is a lot of bunk. I'm not confused about any of my players. I know pretty well just what all of them can or can not do on a ball field."

Leo said he is not going to be stampeded into making any move against his own judgment, then added:

"I think after all these years as player and manager I should know something about this game and the men who play it."

He insists that his present Dodgers are much better than last year's pennant winning club and he expects them to win again.

He likes the Cardinals and Braves in that order and has much respect for the Giants' power, and he thinks every club in the league will be stronger.

Above all he looks for the biggest improvement to be shown by his young and strong-armed pitching staff.

Gorilla's Not My Nickname, Judge!

Here's one Marion Cub President W. Dexter Hazen tells about big pitcher Tom Jones Jr., long-armed righthander from Brookfield, Ohio, whose nickname "Gorilla" found favor in the Cub camp after being tagged that by the Judge himself.

One day this week Jones strolled into the Judge's office saying "What's the idea you calling me Gorilla? Now everybody calls me that. That's not my nickname—they call me Monster!"

OPEN LETTER TO MY OWNER

I am a 1940 automobile. My paint doesn't glisten. My fenders have holes that show my smooth and road-worn tires (embarrasses me). My motor knocks and I am so full of carbon that I can hardly struggle up a slight grade. My clutch is grabby and my transmission rattles. My drive shaft and differential have noises that give fair warning that trouble will soon be developing in that section of my anatomy. (Man I need attention) yet every day I am expected to take an overdose of that vile tasting gasoline—chew it up and mix it with a weak spark and spit out what I don't need, through my rusty leaking exhaust pipe. Last evening I refused to stand this neglect any longer and I stubbornly refused to start. If you don't take me down to that fine motor and body clinic at Midtown Chevrolet's Service Department, I will just giveup and refuse to run permanently.

Sincerely,
Your Faithful Car.

P. S. I have heard from the other cars in the Parking Lot that all of them plan to start acting up if they are not taken to Midtown Chevrolet Service and Body Shop for skilled attention.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY

By AP Newsfeatures

GREGOR PIATIGORSKY, born April 17, 1903, in Ekaterinoslav, Ukraine, has been called by leading musicians "the greatest cellist of our day".

Piatigorsky rose to fame in the school of hard knocks. He began cello study with his violist father at six, went to work at nine to help support the family and by 15 was first cellist of the Moscow Imperial Orchestra.

After the Russian revolution he went to Poland, struggled through poverty and hunger, finally won the attention of German Conductor Wilhelm Furtwangler and thereafter his rise was swift.

He has played widely in Europe and the United States.

Kenton Couple Safe After Bogota Riots

Special to The Star

KENTON, April 17 — Kenton friends of Mr. and Mrs. Granville Parker received word Tuesday of their safety in Bogota, Colombia.

Much concern was felt for them in conection with the leftwing uprising in that country because Mrs. Parker is serving as receptionist for the American delegation to the conference of Latin American republics and was presumed to be with the group who took refuge in the American embassy.

Mr. Parker, a brother of Mrs. R. B. Merriman of this city, is an engineer with the Texas Oil company and has been stationed in Bogota for several years.

Word of the Parkers' safety came to Mrs. Merriman from her uncle in Miami, Fla., who had received a brief cablegram from Mr. Parker Thursday morning.
